1. UPHILL has recently come into contact with a man who purports to have access to various classified information from within the DDR but who also admits he has been in contact with the MFS. He has been able to furnish a safehouse address and two telephone numbers, each of which is used by Main Department II of the MFS according to UPHILL files, but says the MFS was never able to recruit him.

2. While UPHILL refuses to buy his story, they have decided to let his information speak for itself and he has been asked to submit samples of what he can provide. To UPHILL's surprise, the first report, which dealt with commercial shipping out of DDR parts, not only received an excellent evaluation by the UPHILL Evaluations Group, it was also rated as probably too valuable to be passed out as build-up material. We are to receive a copy of this report through reports channels.

3. Based on this first report, UPHILL furnished the source a Minex and trained him in its use. After one false start the source photographed a report, classified Confidential, which he alleges to be a digest of a larger report, classified Secret, containing a compilation of all known information on US atomic planning through 1965. The source stated that only a limited number of persons have access to the larger document while the digest receives much wider circulation.

4. Since the digest deals with information on atomic energy programs within the United States, UPHILL has furnished an exact typewritten copy and has requested a HIRAK evaluation. It is requested that CSM/6 obtain an evaluation of the report, which is attached, with particular emphasis on the following questions:

- a. Is the report accurate?
- b. Is it a compilation of over information?
- c. Is there intelligence value in the acquisition of this or similar reports?

5. UPHILL recently received a second report from the source along the same lines and will also forward it for an evaluation in the near future.
